$50 Annual Dues

You are invited to join the California Press Association
... and become a part of California journalism history.

Your dues help the California Press Association continue its ever more crucial mission:

- To be the guardian of the history and traditions for California journalism;
- To recognize and honor contemporary achievements;
- To assure the future and integrity of California journalism through education and professional support; and
- To provide a social and educational forum for its members.

Twenty dollars from your $50 annual membership dues is devoted to the CNPA Foundation for internships and equipment grant programs. Cal Press, as it is affectionately known by its members, donates $5,000 annually to the CNPA Foundation with $4,000 allocated to two $2,000 internships and $1,000 for training, equipment or other grants. Cal Press is also a member of and supports financially the First Amendment Coalition and other journalism support projects.

The Association hosts an annual December winter meeting, held in San Francisco the first Friday in December, which features entertaining and educational programming during the awards luncheon and dinner and the presentation of several prestigious awards.
